the one-year change in the district's accountability score (2025-26)

Manor ISD leads the Austin metro in school district accountability improvement.

The 6-point gain in Manor ISD's Texas Education Agency (TEA) A-F accountability score reflects measurable progress in student outcomes, teacher quality, and operational transparency. This is not a marginal shift—it is a systemic uplift in public service delivery. Such gains signal growing institutional confidence and long-term stability in community investment.

01

Improvement drives long-term value

This is not a short-term spike. It is a structural shift in how value is created—through institutional resilience, not just population growth. The market is beginning to price in the future, not just the present.

02

The quietest markets are the most promising

For investors and homeowners, this represents a rare opportunity: to enter markets where fundamentals are strengthening before the broader market notices. The data shows that value is being built not where the noise is, but where the work is.
