THE DATA

1 million

Students reached

Through MIT RAISE's Day of AI event, a key program under MIT for America.

This figure represents the scale of student engagement in AI literacy across U.S. schools and colleges. It underscores how AI education is no longer a niche but a national priority. The reach of a single event suggests that structured, scalable AI learning can bypass traditional access barriers.

AI as a Co-Pilot for Educators

The initiative's emphasis on 'face-to-face guidance' despite digital delivery shows that human connection remains central—even in AI-driven education.

The Real AI Talent Gap Is in Teachers

The real bottleneck isn't student access—it's professional development. Scaling AI in education means first scaling the teacher's ability to teach it.
