THE DATA

2,972

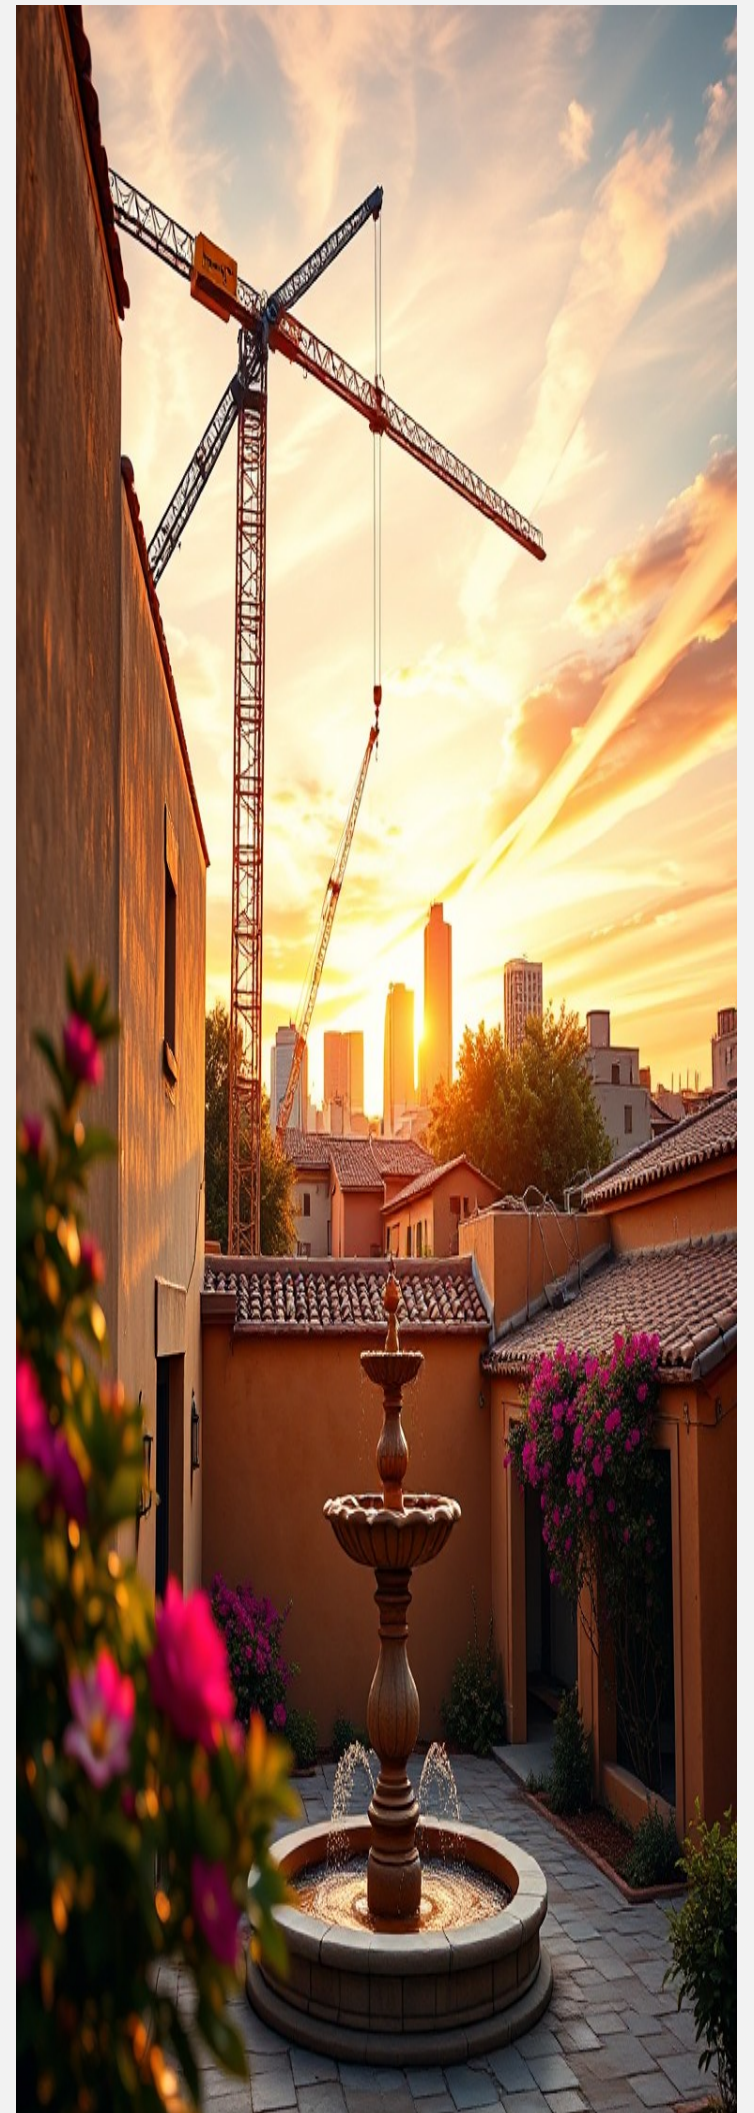

Construction Establishments (2022)

Bexar County, Texas, leads the San Antonio MSA and the state in construction activity, according to the 2022 U.S. Census County Business Patterns.

This figure reflects the scale of ongoing development in the region's core urban center. The dominance of Bexar County suggests that capital, labor, and regulatory infrastructure are most concentrated here, reinforcing its role as the economic and housing epicenter of the San Antonio metro. This is not a temporary spike — it is structural.

01

The urban core is the engine

The data confirms that urban density, not sprawl, is the dominant growth model in the San Antonio MSA today.

02

Suburbanization is not replacing the core

For real estate strategy, this means that location within Bexar County — especially near transit corridors, employment hubs, or mixed-use districts — is not just desirable, it is the primary driver of long-term value.
